

STORIES FROM MY WINDOW
...during lockdown 2020
by 4.4 pupils

PRECIOUS THANKS TO

GABIN, ELSA, LILIA AND LINA

Call

Odd

Notorious

Tedious

Alone

Imprisonment

Nobody

Mandatory

Ecological

Elsa

Stories from my window

Here is the window I looked at every day during the confinement. It is as if nature is making fun of us, we were there watching it wondering when we could go out during this period of confinement it happened a lot, first of all we had to wear masks for each outing and disinfect the hands as soon as we touched the smallest thing. At home we are very bored my family and I were doing activities like drawing, watching a movie, cooking ... as soon as we turn on the TV there were only things about the coronavirus. We also applaud the doctors at 8 p.m.

Stories from my window ...

enjoy yourself !

Hello,

During the lock down period (March 16/May 11), almost the whole world was confined at home. The cause? A virus called Coronavirus or Covid19 that killed 355,575 people and 5,690,182 cases but 2,349,598 people were cured. For 2 months and half, I had homeschooling (fortunately, there was digital technology), we had virtual classrooms. We had to be in possession of a certificate required to leave our residence and on which we had to state the reason why (shopping, work, ...).

It was forbidden to visit family and friends, in order to avoid contamination.

We did board games with my family, hang out in the garden, did trampoline, made cakes or watched TV/Netflix. May 11 was the end of lockdown, the shops reopened you could go out without the certificate, but the restaurants and cafes were still closed. Now we can visit family and friends but wearing masks. We must disinfect everything, it's very painful and I'd like to go back to our former life. I hope that when we dig up this time capsule, this will just be a souvenir.

#IndiaFightsCorona

CORONA VIRUS

'U' CAN BREAK THE CHAIN
Stay Home. Stay Safe.

STAY HOME
SAVE LIVES

STAY HOME TO STOP THE SPREAD OF CORONAVIRUS.

